Outstanding Achievement Awardee

Bio: Justin Martindale, PT, DPT, OCS, CSCS, FAAOMPT was born and raised in Amarillo, Texas. He developed a profound love for the game of basketball at an early age. Playing organized basketball from grade school through high school, Dr. Martindale suffered several knee and ankle injuries which spurred his interest in how the human body heals. These injuries also gave him his first experience as a physical therapy patient and planted the possibility of pursuing physical therapy as a career. He stayed in the panhandle of Texas to complete his undergraduate studies at Texas Tech University, graduating in 1996 with a Bachelor of Science in Exercise and Sports Science. He was accepted into the physical therapy program at the University of Texas Health Sciences Center at San Antonio where he earned a Bachelor of Science in Health Care Sciences and then his Master's Degree in Physical Therapy in 2000. Shortly after graduation and physical therapy licensure, Dr. Martindale was accepted into a three-year fellowship program for orthopaedic manual physical therapy. During his fellowship program, he earned a board certification in orthopaedic physical therapy (OCS) and finally gained his fellowship status in the American Academy of Orthopaedic Manual Physical Therapists (FAAOMPT) in 2003. After completing his fellowship program, he then completed his Doctorate in Physical Therapy from A.T. Still University in 2007. In addition, to help his patients who are competitive athletes bridge the gap between recovering from an injury and returning to sport safely, as well as assisting any person to achieve their physical performance goals, Dr. Martindale earned his certification as a Certified Strength and Conditioning Specialist (CSCS).

With his passion for orthopaedic physical therapy and helping people return to the things they love, he founded Promotion Physical Therapy in 2005 with just himself and one employee. Since that time, he has grown the company to five locations across the San Antonio and Boerne communities.
